Faculty Workshops – Fall 2012

Workshops are open to all City Tech faculty and staff!

RSVP: Prof. Maura Smale, Information Literacy Librarian, msmale@citytech.cuny.edu, x5748

---

Harnessing the Power of eBooks for Research and Instruction
Wednesday September 12 @ 1-2pm
(held in the Library in Rm A441)

Did you know the City Tech Library has over 270,000 eBooks? They're all available 24/7 and can be accessed using your computer, smartphone, e-reader, or tablet. Learn how to find eBooks in the library, discover how easy it is to download and use them, and find out how eBooks can be assigned as reading material for your students.

---

Microblogging the Classroom
Wednesday October 3 @ 1-2pm
(held in the Library in Rm A441)

How can microblogging tools like Twitter and Tumblr be used to complement instruction? Less formal, and easier to set up than a course page or personal website, these can be used on their own or linked to existing pages or accounts. During this workshop, we'll walk through the process of setting up an online presence and discuss using web tools to share ideas – no previous experience necessary!

---

Advanced Photoshop: Beyond the Basics
Wednesday November 7 @ 1-2pm
(held in the Library in Rm A441)

This workshop will introduce advanced techniques for using Adobe Photoshop, including using the type tool, image adjustments, filters, and special effects. Previous experience in using Photoshop is not necessary, but is encouraged. Learn how to create graphics and edit photos for instructional use and more.

---

Additional workshops will be scheduled during Open Access Week (October 22-26). Please watch for announcements as the dates draw closer!