CALL FOR PROPOSALS

Submission Deadline: 9/15/2011
Acceptances will be announced by the end of the month.

The City University of New York's 10th annual IT Conference will have a Janus-like focus, looking back on what has been accomplished, and forward to what can and should be done. All presentations, mixed together over the two days, will be at John Jay College. The conference will offer overviews of the University's key IT initiatives, demonstrations of how technology continues to change instruction, research, and administration, and a chance to meet with vendors.

All proposals (but especially those treating emerging technologies and applications, new uses and trials, and prospects rather than realized projects) can explicitly suggest alternative formats, inviting less pure presentation, more interchange, participation, and discussion, through the conference’s standard unit of one hour for presentations or panels. Proposals for panels or presentations, roundtables, workshops, and interactions are welcome.

Specifying preferred format as well as focus, proposals should include a title, an abstract of no more than 200 words, and the name and affiliation of each party to the proposal. (Groups as well as individuals may make Proposals.) Proposals must be submitted using the form at http://cunyitconference.commons.gc.cuny.edu/submit_proposals_form

For more information, visit http://cunyitconference.commons.gc.cuny.edu/call-for-proposals/