Women in Science: Looking for Role Models

In 1903, Marie Sklodowska Curie was awarded the Nobel Prize in Physics jointly with her husband, Pierre Curie. In 1911, she was the sole winner of the Nobel Prize in Chemistry. Women have been winning Nobel Prizes ever since, but in very small numbers compared to their male colleagues.

Speaker:
Magdolna Hargittai
Hungarian Academy of Sciences
Budapest University of Technology and Economics

• Why are so few women in top positions in science?
• Can we expect more women Nobel laureates?
